Supreme Court Decision Forces Revamp For City's Police Court

By JACK SCHICHT
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

In an attempt to streamline the punishment system in Sedalia Police Court, City Prosecutor Robert Liston and City Counselor J. R. Fritz will propose to the City Council at its next meeting sweeping changes in the present system.

This action mainly results from a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision which says that any person on trial for any crime carrying a possible jail or prison sentence is assured of a lawyer if he wants one. If a person cannot afford to hire a lawyer, the court must appoint one.

Because every offense in police court, with the exception of parking violations, is punishable by a jail sentence, the court now must ask every person appearing before the judge whether he wants a lawyer.

If the person says yes, then the court must ask him whether he can afford one. And if the person says he is indigent, then the court must appoint a lawyer for him.

Under present city laws, anyone could technically go to jail for committing minor crimes such as speeding or possession of fireworks within the city limits. This means that if a person were arraigned in police court on a charge of exceeding the speed limit by 10-miles-an-hour (which usually results in a $10 fine), he could ask the court to appoint a lawyer to defend him because he is indigent.

Rather than cope with the hypothetical situation of having to appoint attorneys to represent indigents for minor crimes, the city counselor and prosecutor will propose to the City Council one of three possible solutions to the problem:

✓ Create the post of a city defender. Because he would be a full-time defense attorney, the need for the court to appoint local attorneys at random to defend indigents would be eliminated. The laws would not be changed.

✓ Do away with jail sentences for all offenses committed within the city. This would eliminate the necessity for the court to appoint defense attorneys for indigent persons because no longer would they be faced with the possibility of going to jail.

For larger crimes committed in the city, the prosecution would be turned over to the county prosecutor's office, and the lawbreaker would be tried in Magistrate or Circuit Court.

✓ Do away with jail sentences for most offenses and create separate categories for jailable offenses. For instance, a person could be tried on a speeding charge, which would only be punishable by a fine, or he could be tried for "malicious and reckless driving," which would be punishable by either a fine or a jail sentence or both.

By reducing the number of jailable offenses, a great majority of cases would not be punishable by a jail sentence. Liston said, however, that persons would still be able to be jailed for such crimes as driving while intoxicated, disorderly conduct and petit larceny under this proposal.

Fritz said he has not yet decided whether he will recommend one of the three alternatives for adoption by the Council.

Since last Friday's police court, Liston has been asking all those persons charged with jailable offenses whether they want an attorney to represent them and whether they can afford to pay for one.

A few persons have said yes, they wanted a lawyer, but no one yet has said he was too poor to afford one.

Show Begins

About 800 rams and ewes from 27 states and Canada will be on show Thursday and Friday in the Sheep Pavilion on the State Fairgrounds. Southdowns and polled Dorsets will be shown at 6 p.m. Thursday. Columbias, Hampshires and Suffolks will be shown at 8 a.m. Friday. The sale will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday. Here, "carding" a Columbia sheep is 14-year-old Kim Landwehr, from Smock's Ranch, Grover, Colo. Landwehr is one of several persons at the show to visit Sedalia for the first time.

Present Platform Scheme To End Vietnam Conflict

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford offered Democratic platform writers today what he called "a short and simple" four-point plan to end the Indochina war and to replace a Republican policy he termed "bankrupt."

Clifford told a panel of the Democratic National Platform Committee program:

"The United States would agree to two actions:

"First, withdraw all U.S. military personnel from South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia on a date certain;

"Second, end all ground, air and naval activity by U.S. forces in South Vietnam, North Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia by the same date.

"North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front would also agree to two actions:

"First, return all U.S. prisoners held by North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front as U.S. troops withdraw;

"Second, refrain from attacks that would threaten the safety of U.S. military personnel during the period of withdrawal."

Clifford said he was convinced that if the plan were agreed to, political forces would emerge in South Vietnam to open negotiations between North and South Vietnamese leading to an overall settlement, and added:

"I further believe that by the time of our final withdrawal, the war in Vietnam would have ended."

Clifford, Washington lawyer and adviser to the past three Democratic presidents, assured the platform panel that he did not believe that such a settlement would be followed by "any so-called blood bath."

It would be the disposition of both sides, he said, to try to heal the wounds of 20 years of warfare.

President Nixon's program will not work, Clifford said, and his proposals for settlement will not bring peace "because they offer the other side nothing but defeat."

Mayor John V. Lindsay earlier called on the platform writers for a commitment in Vietnam, saying that the "long and immoral war" was the overriding issue before the country.

Lindsay greeted a panel of the Democratic National Platform Committee with a call for an end to what he termed "global economic brinksmanship" and the loss of American prestige around the world.

Veteran diplomat W. Averell Harriman, saying that a prompt political settlement of the Vietnam war would be his party's goal, presided over the session.

The one-day New York session conducted by a panel of about 15 platform committeemen winds up the coast-to-coast phase of the public testimony-taking. Drafting of the 1972 platform starts Friday in Washington when the full 150-member platform committee meets.

Harriman's view that President Nixon's dramatic dealings overseas have alienated old allies and undermined confidence in America's reliability already is before the platform writers.

Harriman, former ambassador to the Soviet Union and Britain, and Paul C. Warnke, former assistant secretary of defense, prepared a report for the Democratic Policy Council which charged last month that the secret peace plan which Nixon advertised in his 1968 campaign "remains the best kept secret of his administration."

If a Democratic president is elected, the Harriman-Warnke report promised:

"American involvement in the war in Vietnam will be ended. A political settlement will be sought, not blocked by the unachievable condition of preserving the repressive Thieu government."

However, many witnesses at platform committee hearings from San Francisco to Boston demanded a more drastic solution with which the platform writers will have to deal—a complete, unconditional pullout of American forces.

The Harriman-Warnke report also promised a multibillion-dollar cut in defense budgets without sacrifice of security by eliminating what it called the "gold plating and extravagant complexity" of costly weapons systems.

District Decision By Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today barred the splintering of school districts into smaller ones when the result is to perpetuate racial segregation.

The 5 to 4 ruling, in a case from rural Virginia, gives federal judges broad supervisory powers over the drawing of school district boundaries.

Although Justice Potter Stewart's majority opinion did not deal directly with cases other than the two before the court he gave out broad hints that strong actions by judges to break down school segregation elsewhere could be upheld.

In other actions today, the court:

—Held that convictions of white defendants are invalid if Negroes were systematically excluded from the jury.

—Ruled that a murder defendant's jailhouse confession to a policeman posing as a prisoner was "harmless error" and not enough to overturn his conviction.

Particularly, Stewart emphasized in the school district decision that the test of whether school boundaries are legally drawn was "the effect" upon the dismantling of racially separate school systems.

In a rare departure from virtual unanimity in school cases, the court split in barring the separation of Emporia, Va., from the Greensville County system.

The four Nixon administration appointees dissented in a bloc.

Extremes Discarded In Truman Dam Case

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KANSAS CITY — U.S. District Court Judge John W. Oliver indicated here Wednesday that neither a total end to construction at the Harry S. Truman dam and reservoir nor a free rein to the Army Corps of Engineers to continue the project would be a suitable answer for a case now before the court.

The Environmental Defense Fund (EDF) is seeking to halt construction through a court order, claiming environmental damage would result from the dam.

But in comments Wednesday from the bench, Judge Oliver told Edward Lee Rogers, EDF general counsel, "The defense position of 'no relief at all' may stand in the same place as your position; take the meat axe and chop the head off."

In a conference Wednesday he asked for more details on a current $36 million contract for construction of the substructure for the power house, which is more than 25 per cent complete. If the cost of stopping the work would exceed the cost of continuing, "someone would have to have his head examined to stop it," the judge said.

But when a $10 million contract for generators was noted on a list of contracts to be awarded, Judge Oliver asked Col. W. R. Needham, district engineer, why the equipment for hydro-power was needed now. He suggested such contracts could be signed after Congress had an opportunity to review alternatives of the project in view of the environmental impact statement to be completed by the Corps of Engineers.

The statement, which Oliver said the EDF had shown that the Corps had failed to file in compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act, is to be completed when the Truman Dam project is to be reviewed by an appropriations committee.

The EDF, a non-profit organization prohibited from lobbying, has indicated it plans to testify before the committee.

Agnes Dumps Rain Along East Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tropical Storm Agnes swept up the Atlantic seaboard today with a wave of torrential rains that crippled transit, sent thousands from their homes and left 19 persons reported dead. The Northeast braced for flash floods.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp declared a state of "extreme emergency" after the storm dumped up to seven inches of rain on the state and caused at least five deaths. The other fatalities were reported in Virginia, New York, and North Carolina.

In Pennsylvania, highways were blocked, communications disrupted and thousands evacuated from their flooded homes.

Amtrak canceled all passenger train traffic south of Philadelphia for fear the Roland Lake Dam near Baltimore might give way.

Irish Cease-Fire Called For Monday

DUBLIN (AP) — The nationalist Provisional Wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army announced today a conditional cease-fire in its bomb-and-bullet campaign to unite Northern Ireland with the Irish republic. The cease-fire will start at midnight next Monday, the Provisionals said.

In London, the British administrator for the province said Britain will "obviously reciprocate" if the IRA wing calls a halt to the violence.

The Provisionals had said suspension of military activities would take effect from Monday provided its terms are reciprocated by the British army.

William Whitelaw, British administrator for the province, gave the government's initial answer to the cease-fire offer in the House of Commons.

He did so three hours after it was made and before even knowing the full terms of the military guerrillas.

The two developments, taken together, signaled a prospect for peace for the first time since the troubles started in Northern Ireland in 1969.

The IRA announcement did not give details and did not explain the terms. In the past the British army has ignored Provisional IRA cease-fire offers that were linked to demands for British troop withdrawals.

The IRA also did not say whether the truce would be indefinite or for a fixed time.

A British army spokesman in Belfast commented: "We are pleased that a cease-fire has been called. But we have not been told what the terms are or how long the cease-fire will last. We hope that between now and midnight Monday things will stay quiet."

The Marxist official wing of the IRA has been observing an indefinite cease-fire since early this month. The Provisional wing ignored this and continued its bomb and bullet campaign to expel the British from Northern Ireland.

Awards Banquet Set For Tonight

Two Sedalia "employes of the year" and the newest members of the Academy of Excellence and the Academy of Ambassadors will be announced this evening at the annual industrial appreciation banquet, according to Bill Hall, industrial development director.

One regular-line employe and one supervisor or mid-management employe will be honored. The Academy of Ambassadors will honor up to five area residents who have contributed to the economic growth of the community.

The Academy of Excellence will recognize up to three industries that have contributed to the manufacturing growth and economic stability of the community, Hall said.

The awards and banquet are being held at Holiday Inn in conjunction with Industrial Appreciation Week which is now being observed.

'Watch Your Steps, Ducklings'

It's all in the family. Mother duck looks a bit concerned while the little ones seem to be in a hurry to plunge in and paddle away in the Liberty Park lagoon. These ducklings are among the 22 that were hatched by two hens under the porch of two homes near the park. The nearly one-month-old ducklings have many older ones to chaperone them around the park, especially the big, ash-colored goose who reportedly acts as a self-appointed body guard to the new comers to the lagoon. According to Herb Mayfield, park policeman, there are 45 ducks now roaming the park area.

Louis Harris Survey

Football Still Leading Sport

By LOUIS HARRIS

Interest in all sports has reached record high levels among the American people in the latest Harris sports survey. Football continues to lead baseball, 63 to 60 per cent, as number-one in fan appeal, although both sports made gains during the past year.

The biggest gain of all was registered by hockey, with the number of sport fans who say they "follow" that game rising from 17 to 24 per cent. This was in spite of the fact that hockey has scant support in the South and among blacks. Basketball rose from 46 to 51 per cent since 1971, was close to the top among women, and was the third most popular sport to watch on television behind football and baseball.

Recently, a cross section of 1,324 sports fans was asked this question, as similar cross sections have been asked each year at this time: "Which of these sports do you follow:"

Sports Follow

	1972 %	1971 %	1970 %	1969 %
Football	63	60	60	52
Baseball	60	57	56	47
Basketball	51	46	39	38
Bowling	29	27	21	26
Golf	28	23	21	24
Boxing	24	31	17	X
Hockey	24	17	14	17
Auto racing	24	22	21	19
Horse racing	21	17	17	17
Skiing	18	19	X	X
Track and field	19	18	18	16
Tennis	17	11	10	8
Boating	14	14	13	X

X-Not asked

Football, after leveling out in 1971, rose three points in the number of fans following that sport, as was the case with baseball, which rose from 57 to 60 per cent, a new high. Football is strongest in the South and Midwest and leads among the younger and more affluent. Baseball's appeal is to older fans, and runs even with football in the East and Midwest. Golf and horse racing have gained substantially since 1970, and interest in tennis has also surged with the televising of the professional circuit.

Boxing, however, has fallen off from the following it registered a year ago, down from 31 to 24 per cent. The rise in interest in boxing last year undoubtedly stemmed from the enormous excitement generated by the Frazier-Ali fight. If a rematch is made between the two, it can be expected that interest in boxing will rise accordingly.

Auto racing continues to climb, and bowling has made something of a comeback after a temporary slide in 1970. The winter sports of hockey and basketball hold out the promise of even greater acceleration in popularity with the expansion of major league competition and T.V. coverage. For the first time, a majority of sports fans in the country say they follow basketball regularly.

It is evident from these results that the sports world of tomorrow is unlikely to be so dominated by football and baseball as was the case several years ago. As the number of sports fans increases, the range of interest in specific sports is also spreading.

One key, of course, to the heightened interest in sports is the televising of sports events. This year for the first time, the Harris sports survey asked the cross section of fans: "If you had to choose, which two or three sports do you think are best to watch on television?"

Best Sports to Watch

	Total Fans %
Football	51
Baseball	35
Basketball	18
Hockey	12
Bowling	12
Auto racing	11
Golf	10
Boxing	7
Skiing	7
Horse racing	6
Track and field	4
Tennis	3
Boating	1
None or not sure	13

Note: Adds to more than 100 per cent because fans picked more than one sport.

As has been the custom of the Harris Survey in the past, the cross section of fans was also asked which was their favorite sport:

Favorite Sport

	1972 %	1971 %	1970 %	1969 %
Football	28	28	30	31
Baseball	23	25	27	29
Basketball	14	14	11	10
Bowling	7	7	6	7
Auto racing	4	8	10	9
Golf	3	3	3	5
Boating	3	X	X	X
Boxing	2	3	2	1
Hockey	2	2	2	2
Tennis	2	2	2	2
Skiing	2	X	X	X
Track and field	1	X	X	X
None	5	6	5	2

The diffusion of sports fans' allegiances is evident from these results. Baseball continues to show a long-term slide in popularity as the nation's number-one sport, down from a high of 39 per cent in 1969 to 23 per cent in 1972. However, football at 28 per cent is also below its 31 per cent high of 1969. Continuing its decline of the previous year, fan interest in auto racing suffered the most when boating and skiing were added to the list of choices in 1972.

The fascinating implication of these results is that while a particular sport might be declining as the fans' favorite, a wider audience may be following it. The result is a new kind of sports pluralism where people no longer focus on a single game, but follow each season's offerings as they come along. The year-round fan is characteristic of a nation more sports conscious than ever before.

Continue Searching For Missouri Woman

VERONA, Mo. (AP) — Authorities and volunteers from a seven-county southwest Missouri area conducted a futile search Wednesday evening for a woman seen running from a small community church near here earlier in the day.

A spokesman in the Lawrence County sheriff's office said they were "going on the assumption" the woman was Mrs. Christine Seal, 22, who disappeared from her home north of Verona Monday morning.

Mrs. Seal's husband, Lynn, told officers Monday he returned home from work to find only their 3-year-old baby in the house and his wife's purse on the kitchen table. He said all her clothing was found in the house, indicating she must have been barefoot and wearing only the nightgown and robe she had on when he went to work.

The Lawrence County sheriff's office said a passerby told them the woman ran nude from the rear door of the Lee Church northwest of Verona as he approached the front door late Wednesday afternoon.

He told authorities the woman disappeared over a ridge before he could stop her.

Officers were expected to resume the search for the woman today.

Attacks 'Disaster Lobbyists'

Bill Hall, Sedalia industrial development director, addressed the Wednesday noon meeting of the Lion Club at Bothwell Hotel.

Hall spoke of the propaganda being put out by what he termed the "Disaster Lobby" of "pessimists" who, in the name of ecology or consumerism, are predicting ecological and overpopulation catastrophes if a major socio-economic regulation and revision is not employed in the U.S. and the world.

Hall said, "If things are all that bad, how come I feel so good?" He added that water and air pollution are on the decline in the U.S. and $3 billion a year is being invested by American industry to further clear the environment.

Other areas covered were the actual decrease in the birth rate since 1955 with it reaching its lowest point in history in 1971. The increase in insect crop damage and spread of insect borne diseases since the ban on DDT and the number of species of animals becoming extinct in this century is no greater than the number of species facing a similar fate in previous generations, Hall said.

Hall indicated one of our greatest problems now was the "Disaster Lobby" spreading the fear and unfounded tales of the country's demise.

The speaker was introduced by program chairman Abe Silverman.

Guests at the meeting included John David Mais, guest of his father John Mais, and Roy DeGroff, manager of the Lion Broom Caravan.

Club president John Kenney presided.

Vision Blocked By Large Vehicles

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Why do people who own campers, station wagons or pick-up trucks always park at corners or driveway entrances? All cities should have ordinances barring such vehicles from parking in places where they block the view of a person trying to enter an intersection.

DEAR POLLY — I would like to tell Katie that my husband uses a hot soldering iron to soften hard putty and then it is easy to remove from around windows. This works like magic when you do a small strip at a time. — J.A.C.

DEAR POLLY — Katie could use a large kitchen knife made of hard steel and remove the hard putty from around her windows with the point of the knife. Insert the point under the putty, lift and it should come off in chunks and then smooth out again with the knife. — MARY B.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — Is there any way to lengthen a pair of slacks? I bought a pair that was to be dry cleaned only and during the cleaning the pants shrank and the material and binding completely separated.

I also had a bonded knit dress dry cleaned as directed, but not pressed, and when I brought it home and started to press it I noticed the binding and material had separted in several places. I tried to steam press it but the fabric had wrinkled so I took the dress back to the cleaners and they said they could do nothing since I had used the steam iron on it. Please help me with some advice. — LORRAINE

DEAR POLLY — With macrame knotting so popular others may be interested in the way I keep the long strands of thread from knotting. I measure off the required length, start about 12 inches from the end I will work from and I wind the thread around three fingers until I get to the end. Using a twist tie such as comes on bread from the bakery I make two or three turns, in a spiral, around this small skein being careful that it is not too tight. The thread then easily pulls out from the center but if it seems too tight untwist slightly. Happy knotting. — MRS. L.W.M.

Political Club Installs Seven

Mrs. P. R. McGirk was installed president of the Pettis County Women's Democratic Club at the Tuesday meeting of the group.

Also installed were Mrs. Albert Lindsey, first vice-president; Mrs. William Wilson, second vice president; Mrs. Sarah McMurdo, third vice president; Mrs. Wallace McCown, secretary; Mrs. Rosie Pearl Robb, treasurer; and Mrs. Clay Williams, auditor.

State representative Joe Rains installed the officers and Mrs. Dottie Blaine, outgoing president, was given a gold bracelet from members of the group.

A reception followed the installation.

Woman's Invention Renown

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Before the windshield wiper there were disgruntled motorists and obstructed views. A society belle from Birmingham envisioned a brighter day.

It was in the winter of 1902 that Mary Anderson went to New York and was distressed at the plight of the street car driver. Back in those days a motorist went out on a rainy day with an onion, a plug of tobacco or a piece of carrot.

Theoretically, the things were rubbed briskly over the windshield, leaving an oily film which prevented water from collecting.

But the theory left a bit to be desired.

When she returned to Birmingham she made a drawing of a gadget she thought would do the job. A local company made a working model—a simple, manually-operated arm to remove snow, rain and sleet from the glass of the modern electric motor car.

It was patented under her name in 1903, but did not catch on until years later.

Miss Anderson forgot about the invention.

Miss Anderson died in 1953 at the age of 87, no doubt amused that her invention was found two-fold on millions of vehicles.

'Aquarius' Theme Decided

"The Age of Aquarius" will be the educational theme of Beta Xi chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha, it was decided at the group's Tuesday planning meeting. Mrs. Debbie Steele is the educational director.

The chapter adopted the Matthew George Lawrence fund at Bothwell Hospital as its philanthropic project and decided to participate in the Million Dollar Bike Ride this summer for the benefit of St. Jude's Children's Hospital in Memphis.

Mrs. Gary Lower, president, and Mrs. Ray Haley, vice-president, conducted a candlelight ceremony for two pledges, Mrs. Brenda Houk and Mrs. Joyce Alfrey.

Committee chairmanships were appointed by the president. The group met at the Old Missouri Homestead.

Garden Club Notes

The Otterville Garden Club held its June meeting Friday at the home of Miss Norma Busch in Kansas City. Nine members and three guests, W. L. Burford, Cecil Hite, and Berry Dunham made the trip. After a tour of Miss Busch's garden, the group drove to the Jacob Loose Memorial Park where they viewed the rose gardens and the garden center.

Returning to the Busch home, a contributive salad luncheon was served and the business meeting was held with the president, Mrs. W. L. Burford, in charge. Miss Lucille Wear read a poem, "The Garden" and closed her devotions with prayer.

Mrs. Burford gave a report on the annual convention of the Federated Garden Clubs of Missouri which she had attended in Kirksville May 31 through June 2. The Otterville club was among those receiving purple ribbon ratings for outstanding achievement during 1971, she said.

WINE OF THE WEEK

Barros Cream Port 5th $3.19

Certainly the most famous of all dessert wines; originally and properly a sweet, heavily fortified wine from a delimited district in the upper Douro Valley of northern Portugal.

Port is a wine which owes its sweetness to the high sugar content of the grapes from which it is made These, crushed, are put to ferment, but at some carefully determined half-way point in their fermentation the juice is drawn off into casks or tanks which contain a predetermined amount of high-proof grape brandy. This, of course, immediately arrests the fermentation, and the result is a wine of 19 to 21 percent alcohol by volume, but still quite sweet.

New Test Would Detect 'Potential' Alcoholics

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

A newly-designed questionnaire, intended to measure a person's addictive propensity, may go a long way toward keeping the potential alcoholic from ever becoming one, its creators hope.

R. M. Battles, Sedalia and Pettis County counselor on problem drinking, and Ed Spurling, head alcoholism counselor for the Mid-Missouri Mental Health Center, Columbia, said they created the 44-question test, which they plan to start giving within 30 days, in an effort to prevent, instead of cure, alcoholism.

"For most people, alcoholism hits them from their blind side," Battles said. "If we can keep this from happening in the first place, our job will be a lot easier."

Described by Spurling and Battles as the first effort of its type in the U.S., the questionnaire represents much effort and time by both men.

"We've been working on the study based on our dealings with over 1,000 alcoholics," Battles said. "We took their personality traits and then devised questions that in some way will enable counselors to detect the one out of every 13 people who are inherently inclined toward addiction."

Spurling said their entire research is based on the assumption, which he says has been proven in research, that alcoholism is an illness contacted especially by people with naturally addictive tendencies. If they (counselors) can spot this trait in people who have not yet begun drinking, Spurling said, prevention is easier than cure.

"We don't say that they can't drink safely, but we can predict that an individual who has addictive traits could more easily run into trouble than one who doesn't," Battles said.

Although indicating they feel the test will adequately cover all patterns of a person's mental, physical and emotional make-up, Battles refused to elaborate on the questions themselves.

"We want people to come here and take the test 'blindfolded,'" he said.

The two men plan to initially administer the test in the area served by the Mid-Missouri Mental Health Center. If it proves successful, Battles said, it will be used on a wider basis.

"If it's as helpful as we think it will be, that won't be a problem ... the word will spread fast enough," he said.

Battles said the test will be given at his office on the second floor of City Hall and at the Sedalia Counseling Center, where Spurling is on duty every Thursday afternoon.

How will they get people to take the test?

"We'll probably get referrals but we hope to encourage as many people as we can. It's entirely confidential," Battles said, "We're trying to encourage complete honesty and sincerity ... but if they even give us half-way honest answers we'll be better off then before."

Pro-Rated Salaries Proposed

John Ryan, Route 3, campaigning for a senatorial seat from the 21st district, held a press conference at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Walnut Hills Country Club in order to announce legislation he hopes to present.

If elected, Ryan said, he would present legislation that would pro-rate the amount of money a legislator receives on the basis of his attendance.

For example, should a legislator be present at 50 per cent of his meetings, he would receive one-half of his established base salary.

"When you think about it," Ryan said, "the elected members of the House and Senate are really employes of the people of Missouri ... hired by votes to carry on the state's business. How can you effectively carry on a business when you are not there?"

Ryan, a former legislator stated that he has seen law makers purposely leave the chambers during controversial votes so that they could avoid taking a position. He said this is not a very business-like approach to state government.

He indicated that during his four years as senator he voted on every issue presented and missed only two days during that time, once due to illness.

Ryan said he thought the people want candidates to come to their district. During his four years Ryan said he was proud "to have the entire membership of the senate, except one, in my district at some time ... I think this is what the people want and what they deserve."

Ryan assured that when he becomes senator, he will make every effort to visit all parts of the district.

Lawrence Fund For Hospital Reaches $214

Sedalia Chamber of Commerce executive manager Chuck Lawrence Thursday reported $214 has been collected so far in the Matthew George Lawrence memorial fund.

The fund honor's Lawrence's infant son, who died June 13 at the University of Missouri Medical Center a few days after he was born at Bothwell Hospital.

The fund is aimed at securing money to purchase equipment for intensive care of the new-born at Bothwell Hospital. Lawrence said he has been consulting with obstetrician Dr. Robert Stockwood and pediatrician Dr. Robert Edmonds in efforts to decide on specific equipment needed.

He said two items currently being investigated are a mobile transfer unit for distressed infants and equipment for fetal and new born monitoring.

The transfer unit is a well-equipped, complete emergency vehicle, Lawrence said. The monitoring equipment is designed to provide surveillance of infants before and immediately after birth.

Both items, Lawrence said, cost several thousand dollars.

Contributions to the fund may be sent to the Sedalia Bank and Trust Co., 111 West Third.

Covelli Director

ARROW ROCK, Mo. (AP) — John Covelli, who has served as conductor of the Kansas City Philharmonic and the St. Louis Symphony, has been named the first musical director of the Jane Froman Center for the Arts at historic Arrow Rock.

One of his first jobs is to select students for next summer's music classes at the center and develop them into a symphony orchestra. He also will be a member of the faculty at Columbia College in Columbia, Mo.

Covelli, a pianist, was resident conductor of the Kansas City Philharmonic for its 1971-72 season. He was on the conducting staff of the St. Louis orchestra the previous year. He will appear in a concert at the Froman Center on Aug. 21 and appear in a joint concert with Janos Starker, cellist, on July 16.

Eding Will Lead Concert Band Here

Chester O. Eding, assistant director, will lead the Sedalia Concert Band in its fourth performance of the season at 8 o'clock tonight at Liberty Park.

The group will begin its performance with "Lone Star March," by Sturchio. Other selections will be "Riders for the Flag," Sousa; "Block M," Bilik; "Camelot," Lerner and Loewe; "A Tribute to Glenn Miller," Gass; "Muskat Ramble," Beeler; "The Spotlight Overture," Brockton; "Whatever Will Be, Will Be," Livingston and Evans; "Tuscarawas March," King.

Following the intermission the concert group will present "Wreaths of Victory March," Rosenkrans; "My Jesus I Love Thee," Gordon; "Bursts of Trumpets," Walters; waltz medleys including "Diane" and "Charmain," Yoder, Rapee and Pollack; and "Gardes Du Corps March," Hall.

Witnesses Hold Assembly in City

About 1,000 delegates from 22 central and western Missouri congregations of the Jehovah's Witnesses will meet in the Agriculture Building on the Missouri State Fairgrounds Friday through Sunday for a semi-annual assembly.

The theme of the assembly is "Conscious of Our Spiritual Need." A highlight of the assembly will be a public address by the denomination's district director, S. A. Jensen, at 2 p.m. Sunday. Jensen will speak on the subject, "Are You 'Marked' for Survival?" according to Donald W. Clair, local minister.

Baptism for new ministers will be held Saturday.

New Police Van Being Prepared

A new police van, which Police Chief William Miller said will be used as a field laboratory for crime investigation and as a field headquarters in case of major disasters, will be in operation in the near future, it was learned Thursday.

The van is presently being remodeled at the Parkhurst Manufacturing Co.

Miller said the van will be able to transport and utilize video tape equipment the department presently has for use in surveillance and traffic studies.

The van also will be used as a rescue vehicle and be equipped with rescue-type tools, Miller added.

Diamond Ring Is Stolen From Home

A diamond ring valued at $600 and several other items were reported stolen to Sedalia police Wednesday.

Robert Barbour, 619 East 18th, reported someone took a stereo tape player, valued at $49.95, from his car while it was parked behind his business at 404 South Ohio between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Wednesday.

John Bowman, 2108 South Harrison, reported someone took a diamond ring, valued at $600, from his home sometime Tuesday night. He told police the ring was on the kitchen table and the back door had been left unlocked during the night.

Gary Huggins, 420 East 10th, reported the theft of a bicycle and two car batteries, collectively valued at $67.

The bike was taken from inside a fenced yard and the batteries from a garage at the above address sometime before 4:05 p.m. Wednesday.

Driver of Truck Seriously Injured

SWEET SPRINGS — A truck driver was seriously injured about 1 p.m. Wednesday when the semi-tractor trailer truck he was driving ran off the road and overturned one mile east of here on I-70.

Earl W. Fawcett, 45, Anaheim, Calif., apparently fell asleep at the wheel, according to the Highway Patrol, and lost control of his westbound unit, which was loaded with aluminum.

Fawcett was given emergency treatment at Sweet Springs Community Hospital and then transferred to the University of Missouri-Medical Center at Columbia. Dr. Charles Worley, who treated Fawcett here, reported the truck driver sustained multiple injuries to his back and severe injuries to his left leg.

A passenger, Wendell Putman, also of Anaheim, sustained minor injuries, but did not seek medical attention.

Hospital authorities listed Fawcett in fair condition.

Extremes

Alternatives to the $294 million project mentioned Wednesday were no dam; a dam with a smaller lake; elimination of hydro-power facilities; or a "dry lake," in which there would be no pool except when gates were closed for flood control.

Rogers said awarding of further contracts should be curtailed so that a larger investment is not built up to influence Congress to continue with the project. But Judge Oliver noted Congress had stopped work on a super-sonic transport project despite the substantial money involved.

EDF attorneys agreed that roadwork already begun in the area should continue including the expenditure of $7 million to improve Highway M-83 south of Warsaw to Bentonville. The opposing groups met in the judge's chambers late Wednesday night and were expected to continue discussion Thursday morning.

Four Cases Are Heard In Court

Four persons appeared in Pettis County Circuit Court Wednesday and Thursday. Charges against two of them were dropped, a motion requesting a mental examination for another was denied and a conditional release from the State Hospital at Fulton was ordered for another man.

A charge of uttering a forged instrument was dropped by the Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney's office against Bob Copas, 1002 South Massachusetts, Thursday. Copas was arrested by the Pettis County Sheriff's officers shortly after he allegedly tried to pass a forged check at the Union Savings Bank on Nov. 24, 1971.

A charge of violation of the compulsory school attendance law was dropped against Veronica Tillery, no address given, Thursday. Mrs. Tillery was arrested by sheriff's officers Sept. 3, 1971, after she allegedly failed to send her daughter, Deborah Westlake, 15, to a public or parochial school.

A motion requesting a mental examination for Raymond L. Maupin, 401 West Saline, charged with first degree robbery and breaking jail and escaping was denied by Pettis County Circuit Judge Frank Meyer.

Judge Meyer, ruling that the motion was denied on the basis of lack of proof, ruled Maupin capable of assisting in conducting his own defense.

Maupin was arrested April 12 by Sedalia police in connection with a robbery at a service station the same day. He escaped from Deputy Sheriff Donald Stratton May 4 outside the county courthouse and eventually was shot in the foot after being pursued four blocks by Stratton. Maupin was being taken to the jail after a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court.

Maupin is being held in the county jail in lieu of a total of $6,500 bond on both charges.

Billy Wayne Denton, 17, 424 North Engineer, was ordered released from the State Hospital at Fulton by Judge Meyer on condition that he remain under the supervision of an uncle and seek the services of the Mid-Missouri Mental Health Center at Columbia.

Denton was arrested in November, 1971, in connection with a break-in at a building at Main and Lamine. He was later charged with second degree burglary and stealing, and then confined to the state hospital.

Awarded $3,000 In Damage Suit

Carl E. Frisbee was awarded $3,000 plus costs in Pettis County Circuit Court for injuries he allegedly sustained in a car-motorcycle accident July 25, 1971.

Maurine E. Lane, 1614 West 18th, defendent in Frisbee's $25,000 damage suit, allegedly backed her 1965 Oldsmobile from her private drive into the path of Frisbee's motorcycle. Frisbee was driving west in the 1600 block of West 18th at the time of the mishap.

Inspect County Voting Precincts

County Clerk Mrs. Mary Jane Wilson Thursday inspected the 18 Pettis County voting precincts outside Sedalia in preparation for the August primary election.

Assisted by county engineer Ed Hall, Mrs. Wilson is replacing old voting booths and ballot boxes with newly repaired and repainted ones.

Mrs. Wilson will inspect and replace voting booths and ballot boxes in the 16 Sedalia precincts Friday.

Rains Appointed To New Committee

State Rep. Joe Rains has been named to the newly-created House committee on the handicapped and retarded, according to notification he received from House Speaker James E. Godfrey this week.

The committee will be charged with compiling a detailed comprehensive study on the care, treatment, training, education, confinement and general disposition of children with special physical, mental and disciplinary handicaps. They will also make a detailed comprehensive study of the juvenile code.

Rains said he "was very honored" to be named to the committee stating it was "very important because it is something we just have to look into ... it (legislative research and recommendations) is so badly needed because the facilities we have are not enough."

Makes an Error In Date of Test

Postmaster Maurice Hogan Wednesday said he was mistaken in reporting that a U.S. Postal Service qualifying test was given June 15.

The discrepancy was detected by Bill Ferguson, 1816 West Fifth, who told The Democrat-Capital he was supposed to be informed about the test and did not receive any notification.

Charles Arnest, civil service examiner-in-charge at the post office, said the test will be given approximately a week after the test forms are received from Los Angeles. He indicated that the test would be given in the near future, but could not specify a date.

Seeking New Home

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vail of Carlisle, Ark., are shown resting at a San Diego zoo parking lot this week, pausing in their search for a retirement cabin site. They have been living in their car and picking up odds and ends since leaving Arkansas. (UPI)

Will Display Various Farm Machine Types

A forage handling day, sponsored by the University of Missouri Extension Division, will begin at 10:30 a.m., June 27, at the Belle Charlois farm on the west side of Highway 13, ten miles north of Clinton and 17 miles south of Warrensburg.

Equipment to be demonstrated in the field include conventional balers (round and square), 1,500 pound round balers, one-ton and three-ton stackers, mowers, hay conditioners, mold inhibitors, swathers, rakes, windrowers, bale loaders and bale wagons. Most major companies will be represented with mechanized equipment available in sizes for most farms.

Hay crops to be harvested will include second cutting of alfalfa, late cutting of fescue and the new Gahi Pearl Millet that is primarily used for a bloat-free annual summer pasture crop.

Laurel Anderson, state agronomy extension specialist in weed control, and Ed Constein, state extension agricultural mechanization specialist, will be assisting the local extension staff, area agronomy specialist Vic Carothers said.

In case of rain, the event will be held on Thursday, June 29.

Appeal By Brewer's Union

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The brewers union at Anheuser-Busch, Inc., has appealed a permanent restraining order prohibiting a strike by the union's 1,000 members.

At a meeting Wednesday night, attorney Jerry Duff of Local 6 of the Brewers & Maltsters Union said he has asked for reconsideration of the order issued by U.S. District Judge James H. Meredith.

Local 6 walked off the job June 13 in a dispute over the brewery's employment policies. The brewery was shut down for two days, despite a temporary order issued by Meredith against a strike. The union men returned to the job June 15 as Meredith threatened to fine Local 6 $100,000 a day if the walk-out continued.

Duff said the union also filed a complaint with the National Labor Relations Board charging the company with unfair labor practices for a possible future layoff of workers. Duff said the layoff would be in violation of a contract which says no Local 6 men employed prior to July, 1970, will be let go unless beer sales decline.

Meredith's permanent order, issued June 18, said the dispute must be settled within 20 days or both sides must submit to arbitration.

Local 6 said Wednesday it is ready for arbitration. Retired federal judge Roy W. Harper should be the arbitrator, the union said.

Local 6 business representative Robert F. Lewis told his men he believes Anheuser-Busch is planning to lay off 200 union members by the end of the year because of automation.

Here's what you're missing in comfort, dependability and safety features if your Chevrolet is 3 years old.

Impala Custom Coupe Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

What a '72 Impala has that your old one doesn't.

- Power front disc brakes, variable-ratio power steering and Turbo Hydra-matic automatic transmission are now standard equipment. Just three more examples of how we're building a better way to see the U.S.A.
- Long 121.5" wheelbase. Long on smoothness. Long on comfort.
- A full-molded foam front seat. Not only is it full foam, it's contoured to hold you comfortably. You find it in expensive cars. And now in Chevrolets.
- Power ventilation system. Keeps outside air coming inside—even when the car is stopped—without opening any windows.
- All Chevrolet engines run on low-lead, no-lead or regular gasoline.
- A double-panel roof that's strong on the outside, quiet on the inside.
- Sealed side-terminal battery. Terminals are sealed to prevent corrosion buildup.
- An advanced emission control system so we can all breathe a little easier.
- A front seat and shoulder belt system with reminder light and warning buzzer so you won't forget to buckle up.
- A hidden antenna in the windshield when you order a factory-installed radio. It won't get bent, folded or mutilated by vandals and garage doors.

You also can take comfort in Impala's traditionally high resale value. Which is another reason why Americans have bought more Impalas than any other car on the road—over 10 million so far.

What a '72 Chevelle has that your old one doesn't.

- A larger standard 6-cyl. engine (250 cu. in.). And all Chevelle engines now run on no-lead, low-lead or regular gasoline.
- Side-guard door beams—like those guard rails you see along the highway—are in the doors of every new Chevelle.
- An advanced emission control system that's helping in the fight against pollution.
- Corrosion-resistant, fully aluminized tailpipe for long life.
- Front seat and shoulder belt system with reminder light and warning buzzer. Just a gentle reminder that you should buckle up.
- A sealed side-terminal battery. With the terminals sealed, corrosion is less apt to build up and rob you of starting power.
- Long-lasting bias belted ply tires. Tire performance is improved because the twin belts keep it from squiggling away.
- A refined Delcotron generator gives you improved reliability and greater durability.
- When you order a new Chevelle with a factory-installed radio, you get the antenna in the windshield. Safe from vandals and garage doors.

The '72 Chevelle has some other things going for it, too. Like its traditionally high resale value. Like being named the "Best Intermediate Sedan" in the annual Car and Driver Readers' Choice Poll. And being the most popular car in its field year after year after year.

Chevrolet. Building a better way to see the U.S.A. Chevrolet

Remember, buckling your seat and shoulder belts is an idea you can live with. Buckle up.

Sedalia Student Travels To South America

By TERRI L. DAUGHERTY
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Forty-four pounds....that is all she could take.

For over a week, Miss Judy Johnson, Sedalia's American Field Service Exchange Student who left Tuesday to spend the summer in Cuenca, Ecuador, South America, packed and unpacked her luggage, trying to decide what to take that would keep her within the 44 pound baggage limit.

Judy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Johnson, 720 West Broadway, spent her first night in Miami, Fla., where she and other AFS students were briefed on what to expect when they arrived at their final destination. Judy arrived Wednesday in Cuenca and will spend nine to 10 weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Cesar Perez Diaz, their daughter Monica, 20 and their son Robert, 15.

Diaz is the owner of a restaurant and is also the coach of a soccer team. Mrs. Diaz is a housewife, their daughter is a student at the university in Cuenca, studying to be a doctor, while Robert is in high school.

"I have received very little information from my new family because I was only notified last Wednesday (June 14) by the local AFS chairman, Mrs. Bruce Whittier, that I had been selected as this summer's exchange student," Judy said.

"The material I did receive from the Diaz family was very helpful. They told me they were looking forward to having me as an exchange student this summer and that I would be just like one of the family. On one section of the material they sent they were asked to circle five words that best described their family. They circled affectionate, happy, humorous, tolerant and warm, words that remind me of my own home," Judy said.

Before Judy left she said she had been reading several books about Cuenca, and found out that it was the third largest city in Ecuador and was founded in 1557. The population is approximately 99,000 and the climate is like spring most of the year around, she said. "I have been practicing my Spanish and hope my two years of Spanish will be of assistance to me as I talk with people in Cuenca," Judy said.

"I became interested in the AFS program through other AFS students who have come to Sedalia and from Robin Williams, who went to Venezuela last summer as an AFS student. Also through assemblies we had this year during school," said Judy.

When asked what the main purpose of the AFS program was, she said, it was designed to promote better understanding between countries and to learn about other cultures, ways of life and people.

"When I return I can tell people about my experiences so they can better understand the country and people I visited. I wanted to become an exchange student because it is a fantastic opportunity to see other countries and learn how other people live," she said.

This fall Judy will be a senior at Smith-Cotton High School where she will serve as vice-president of her senior class and co-captain of Spiz Drill Team.

The American Field Service Exchange Program is sponsored locally by the Sedalia branch of the American Association of University Women.

Eagle Scouts To Be Recognized

The Great Rivers Council, Boy Scouts of America, will conduct a recognition program and reception honoring Eagle Scouts at the Lincoln University Center, Jefferson City, at 3:30 p.m. on Sunday. A total of 125 youths have achieved this highest Scouting rank in the past 12 months in the 34 county area of the Council.

The young men will be members of the Robert N. Hunter class of Eagle Scouts. Mr. Hunter, chief engineer for the Missouri Highway Department and a council vice president, will also be honored as the recipient of the Distinguished Eagle Award. The award recognizes adults who have earned the rank of Eagle at least 25 years ago and have rendered outstanding service to their community, state, and nation. Mr. Hunter becomes the third person so recognized in Missouri.

Dr. James N. Freeman, department of agriculture, Lincoln University and council board member, is chairman for the event. Recognition certificates will be presented to the Eagle Scouts by Mr. Hunter following his address on "The Responsibilities and Challenges of an Eagle Scout." Mr. Jack Armstrong, area director for the north central region headquartered in Kansas City, will present the Distinguished Eagle Award.

Area scouts who will be recognized are Tim G. Mabry, Daniel W. Pahlow, Roger Fingland, Dudley I. Lehmer, Chuck Alexander, Wesley L. Keele, Robert L. Fingland, John Bazin, Sedalia.

Mike Wood, Slater; Dale Soendker, Paul R. Crews, Marshall; David A. Young, Cole Camp; John Terwilliger, California; David C. Upton, Green Ridge.

Robert C. Bloss, Douglas K. Coley, Andrew R. Gingrich, Gregory W. Schuh, and Dallas Acuff, Boonville.

The public is invited to attend the recognition program. Reservations for the reception following the program must be made through the Great Rivers Council.

Local Scout Receives Training

Kenneth Kemper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kemper, Rt. 2, is receiving special training in Boy Scout leadership at Philmont Scout Ranch and Explorer Base in the Rocky Mountains of New Mexico.

Kemper, 15, is one of more than 800 Scouts selected from across the nation to participate in the 12-day summer course at the Junior Leader Instructor Training Camp. The purpose of the camp is to prepare these Scouts to assist their council in training other junior leaders.

A member of Troop No. 50, sponsored by the Parkview Christian Church, Kemper is receiving instruction in the skills of leadership and Scoutcraft, including patrol and troop activity planning, hike planning, campfire planning, and conducting training programs. The Scouts participating in each session live in tents and are organized into patrols.

Students Selected To Attend Freedom Forum

Area students have been selected to attend the 11th annual Freedom Forum Sunday through Thursday on the campus of the Mexico Military Academy.

Students attending will include Christy Goodwin, daughter of Mrs. Kathryn Goodwin, Route 2; Elaine Sartin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Sartin, Knob Noster; Charlotte Nelson, daughter of MSgt. and Mrs. Franklin L. Nelson, Whiteman AFB; Kathryn Boyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Boyle, Warrensburg; and Marinda Rowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rowell, Knob Noster.

Miss Goodwin is sponsored by the Pettis County Farm Bureau; Miss Sartin is sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Knob Noster; Miss Nelson is sponsored by the Knob Noster PTA; Miss Boyle is sponsored by the Farm Bureau; and Miss Rowell is sponsored by the Bank of Knob Noster.

The four-day session offers intensive training, stressing American heritage, re-emphasizing the basic principal upon which the country was founded, reviewing the structure of the American competitive enterprise system and outlining the dangers of communism and socialism.

Each year the faculty is composed of well known authors, educators and leaders, it was reported.

Youth Tours Europe

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SWEET SPRINGS — Diann Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lewis, Sweet Springs, flew to Washington, D.C. recently for orientation for a six week tour of Europe.

Diann is a student Ambassador of the People-To-People High School Program and will tour Austria, England, the Netherlands, Germany, Italy, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Switzerland and France. A highlight of her trip is the home visits and she will be the guest of families in England, Austria, the Netherlands and Germany. She will live with the families learning about their culture first hand.

The People-To-People Program is to create goodwill and international understanding.

Diann is a 1972 graduate of R-VII High School and will attend State Fair Community College in Sedalia this fall.

Summer Job Hunt This Year Will Require Extra Effort

By ERNIE HOOD

Granted you may have to scratch a little harder than in the past, there's still a paradox in the job market that may prove of advantage to students looking for work this summer.

While some companies have admittedly pared their organizations to the bone in order to stay in the black, it has meant that when extra work comes up there's no one to do it. Temporary help must be hired.

That's your cue: Look for the job with short or unusual hours, the type that people requiring full-time, regular hours will not be interested in. Such employment might include cashiering, work on switchboards, busboy and waitress work in lunchrooms, drive-ins and cafeterias and part-time sales work.

As we've mentioned before, do not overlook such traditional summertime work as camp counseling, lifeguard work, baby sitting, and service work at summer resorts.

Your neighborhood might also be a source of employment if you look around for families who might be going on a vacation and would welcome reliable care of their yards and inspection of their houses while they are away.

You might also think about asking relatives and friends to inquire at their work places if there will be openings for summertime help, because you may need all the assistance you can get.

Here are a few tips you should be getting out of the way without delay:

— Analyze your capabilities before you start: Can you type? Are you good at figures? Are you good on the phone? Are you a good — and safe — driver? Do you have mechanical aptitude?

— Prepare a simple resume, and if you have a typewriter put together an information sheet listing facts about yourself, your capabilities and where you can be reached.

— Develop a list of companies you think might have openings, apply personally to them and take copies of your information sheet with you to leave with the personnel people for possible future contact.

— As our Labor Department Wage-Hour Division people note, also be prepared to show proof of age because federal and state laws preclude some jobs for those under 18 for various reasons, including safety. A birth certificate or school record is acceptable in most instances.

— Try to time your interviews for the morning hours. Most employers prefer to interview then. Incidentally, don't be too pushy, but neither be timid.

— Be sure to dress neatly and appropriately, and if you are reporting by appointment be prompt.

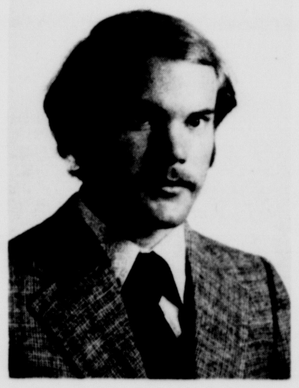

— When you leave names of references be sure to advise those whose names you are using so they will be ready to provide information about you if called on.

— And last but not least, do your job hunting alone, not with a pack. Employers hire individuals, not groups.

If you would like information on a specific career field write to SO YOU WANT TO BE in care of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, Suite 410, 230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017. (NEA)

RECORD SALES DROP

LONDON (AP) — Producers of records by such British stars as Tom Jones and Engelbert Humperdinck report a sharp slump in sales in the United States. A spokesman for the EMI (Electrical and Musical Industries), the big distributing company, said "record sales have been badly hit" by credit restrictions.

Brian Reynolds, a senior in industrial engineering at the University of Missouri-Columbia, has been awarded $1,000 through the Dwight D. Gardner Scholarship. Reynolds, who has a grade point average of 3.92, is the son of Mrs. Ruth J. Reynolds, Clinton.

Student Reports

The Dean's Honor Roll for the spring semester at William Jewell College, Liberty, has been announced. Those named to the honor roll from Sedalia are Robert Bouknecht, Jr., 1908 South Ingram and Rebecca Speaker, 408 West 22nd.

Kathy F. Dawson, Route 3; Rickey Lynn Smith, 1012 South Center; Don A. Tatman, Route 5; Glen Ray Kirkpatrick, Route 3, Walnut Hills, have been granted a Church-Campus Award for the 1972-73 academic year at William Jewell.

Recipients of this award are selected students recommended to the college as outstanding young persons by Baptist pastors. Each of the recipients receives $1,000 toward tuition and fees at the church-related college.

William E. Werneke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Werneke, Nelson, has been named to the Dean's List at Central Missouri State University for the spring semester. He had a grade-point average of 3.75. He is majoring in agriculture and mathematics.

Janette Lindecrantz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lindecrantz, 1201 South Lamine, has been named to the Dean's List for the 1972 spring term at Bethany College in Lindsborg, Kan.

Scout News

Boy Scout Troop No. 50 held elections recently and the following officers were elected: Keith Daleen, senior patrol leader; Kenneth Kemper, assistant senior patrol leader; Mitch Briggs, patrol leader of Cobra Patrol; Brent Langston, patrol leader of Flaming Arrow Patrol; David Brown, scribe; and Jerry Eckles, quartermaster.

Keith Daleen and Brent Langston took part in the Pine Tree training held at Camp Hohn June 7-10. Kenneth Kemper is attending Junior Leader Instructor Training Camp at Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico.

Nine boys were awarded patches for hiking the 20 mile Taum Sauk Trail in Ironton, Mo. recently. Three leaders also hiked the trail. The troop is planning to hike the Devil's Backbone Trail August 5.

It was reported the troop is making preparations for a week of camping at Camp Hohn July 2-8.

Kenneth Kemper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kemper, Route 2, of Troop No. 50, and Bill Roe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Roe, 923 East 15th of Troop No. 61, were recently presented the God and Country Award by the Rev. Ray Gipson at the Parkview Christian Church.

Youth Page News Policies

To insure timely reporting of news of interest to youth, all reports of activities, clubs and organizations must be submitted to the youth editor by noon Wednesday following the day of the event.

Publication of late material cannot be guaranteed. All material submitted will be edited and published as space permits. Reports should be confined to those facts pertinent to the event. For possible coverage and pictures of important news events, the youth editor should be notified in advance.

The Democrat-Capital cannot accept responsibility for damage that might occur to pictures submitted for publication.

4-H News

A 4-H Environmental Conference at the Lake of the Ozarks was attended by two 4-H members and one adult leader from Pettis County. They are John Simon, Mrs. Tony Simon and Mary Jo Simon. Over 900 club members from across the tate attended the conference, which was organized by the Extension Division of the University of Missouri-Columbia.

The St. Paul's 4-H Club met recently with 14 members present. In observance of the president, Melody Schriener, vice-president, called the meeting to order.

Six project reports were given and demonstrations were given by Randall Kast, Steven Davis, and Kathy Childs. Debbie Davis presented a program on good grooming.

It was announced that a swimming party will be held from 6:30 to 9 p.m. July 11.

Cancer Patient Lifespan Varies

Dear Dr. Lamb — My husband passed away recently from advanced cancer of the lower left lung. The doctor removed all of the left lung and had to scrape the cancer from his heart. The doctor operated on a Tuesday and my husband was up and walking on Friday. One week after the operation, the doctor gave him a cobalt treatment, and three days later, he died. What chance did he have of living or how long could he have lived?

Dear Reader — No one can answer that question in any individual case exactly. There have been some astonishing examples of people who have lived much longer than usual even though they have very advanced malignant disease.

A person with cancer of the lung which has already spread as your letter suggests, has only a minimal chance of living very long after the operation.

This does not mean that all cancers of the lung are hopeless. A number of them have been detected early enough to result in a cure for five or more years.

Cancer of the lungs is one of the most common cancers in men and 90 per cent occur in cigarette smokers. Individuals who are heavy smokers are the ones who most often develop cancer of the lungs. There are some types of cancer of the lungs which are relatively rare and can occur in individuals who are non-smokers. But essentially, the non-smoking population rarely has cancer of the lungs.

Dear Dr. Lamb — As an individual who has had his larnyx removed, I was particularly interested in one of your columns describing a procedure for fashioning a voice box from the skin of the patient. This subject is of intense interest to many individuals who are struggling along to achieve adeptness in the use of the esophageal speech, or in the use of a buzzer. Where can one have such surgery done and how long a period of hospitalization would be involved?

Dear Reader — I have received many letters about this. The initial reports about the procedure stated that it was done by Doctors J. Simon McGrail and David O. Oldfield, Toronto Medical School and Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, Canada. The operation is said to produce a good quality voice by fashioning a voice box from the patient's own skin.

To find out more information talk to your own doctor about it and let him contact Drs. McGrail and Oldfield by writing to the Toronto Medical School, Toronto, Canada; or he may have some other source of additional information. Although the original procedure was credited to the two Canadian doctors, most new surgical procedures that have real promise are rather quickly adopted by other surgeons.

Flat Creek benefits don't measure up

After four years of study and $94,000, the Army Corps of Engineers has written off flood control protection on Flat Creek as unfeasible.

This was the verdict announced here Monday night, when the Corps' deputy district engineer revealed that the Army would restrict its role to an advisory one, leaving actual construction of possible flood control structures up to private interests.

Although it considered several alternatives on reservoirs for flood control along Flat Creek, the Corps could not improve upon a costs-benefits ratio of only 40 cents in benefits for every dollar spent.

While flood damage along Flat Creek has been significant, it has not been devastating, which might account for the marked lack of interest in the proposed projects as reflected in the relatively poor attendance at the Corps' several meetings held here.

Over the last 30 years, the Corps estimates flood damage along Flat Creek has totaled $1,200,000, of which nearly half was caused by the flood of 1951. These loss figures evidently were not great enough to offset the costs of constructing a flood control reservoir or undertaking other means of solving the problem.

One side benefit that Sedalia would have received from construction of a reservoir would have been creation of another water supply source. While this is not an immediate problem, it very well might be in 10 years, according to water department estimates, with water usage in the city increasing at about 50 million gallons a year.

With the Corps of Engineers now out of the picture, Sedalia and area residents will now watch with interest the recommendations that come out of another study of the entire Blackwater-Lamine Rivers basin, being conducted by the Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with other agencies.

College economy needed

Your editorial in the June 18 edition of The Democrat really demonstrates one of two things, either how biased, or how uninformed an individual may be when he decides to write an article supporting an action of one faction, destined to suppress the will of the majority of the electorate. In your article you stated that because of the deadlock in the election of a board president, it had been impossible to transact any important business in the operation of the college since the April election. This is not a true fact inasmuch as all measures have been approved by a majority of the board. The only proposition brought up for discussion which was tabled without a vote was the impending purchase of a second hand bus to haul the basketball team. In this matter the board members from Benton County voiced the opinion that if a vehicle was needed, they should seek competitive bids on new equipment instead of approving a package deal on a piece of used equipment.

Your article implies that even though the method the board agreed on in February or March on holding an election in the same manner which they had employed in the past was not in conformity with legislation recently enacted, everything would have gone without a challenge if the three board members from Benton County had been YES MEN on everything the board members from District 200 of Sedalia proposed.

This is not an issue where two counties are represented by opposing factions. It is one group who are interested in promoting the interests of the Sedalia businesses regardless of the tax burden it places on all property owners within the SFCC district. On the other hand, the conservative members of the board are not only speaking for the taxpayers of Benton County, but also for the residents of Pettis County and the city of Sedalia who are interested in securing the best educational system possible with federal, state and local tax dollars. One example of the utter disregard for economy was the rejection of free land for the campus in the beginning. The free land was more centrally situated with direct access to Highway 65 than the present location.

The main reason they gave for rejecting this offer was that it would be impossible to get approval on a building bond issue if the college was ten miles south of the city.

Some of the Sedalia businessmen admitted that they were interested in promoting the college with only one thought in mind, and that was for the number of dollars that they could ring up in the cash register if the college were located within or very near the city limits. The promoters estimated that the college would be equal to another large industry for the City of Sedalia and at the most the tax would never go above 20 cents on the hundred dollar valuation. The end result is somewhat different, a 40-cent tax levy for operating costs which pulls from $85 to $95 thousand dollars out of Benton County each year.

Merry-Go-Round

Footnote to history in censure of Dodd

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — There was high drama on the Senate floor five years ago this week.

Sen. Tom Dodd, slumped in his seat, silver hair askew, a harried look in his eyes, fingered a loaded pistol in his coat pocket while he waited for his Senate colleagues to censure him.

Those who knew about the pistol feared the despondent Dodd might try to end his humiliation with a pistol shot, thereby turning the drama into Roman tragedy in front of the assembled senators.

This footnote to history, heretofore unrecorded, occurred on June 23, 1967. We have now pieced together the details.

Dodd was notified early in the day that there was no chance for him to avoid censure. He was informed, indeed, that the vote against him would be overwhelming.

Crushed, he brooded over the idea of becoming one of the six men in U.S. history to be censured by their Senate peers. Out of the thoughts tumbling through his mind, a plot began to take shape.

Across the street in his Senate Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee was a collection of pistols. Dodd, ironically, was a champion of gun control and the pistols had been collected as exhibits for his antigun legislation. He was their official custodian.

The despairing senator dialed the subcommittee and reached Eugene Gleason, a staff member.

"Gene," said Dodd shakily, "there's some trouble up near the house with crime. Georgetown's full of hippies. I want you to bring me up a small automatic, maybe one of those .25 caliber ones, with a clip."

Gleason, a gruff, prize-winning former newsman, loved the old man. Between them was a candor that Dodd rarely achieved with his subordinates.

Gleason tried to soothe the troubled senator but finally agreed to deliver the pistol, thinking this would give him a chance for a face-to-face talk. He also notified the subcommittee's staff director, criminologist Carl Perian, of Dodd's disturbing request.

Did Dodd intend to turn the pistol on himself? The two staff men left their office so they would have complete privacy and paced the halls as they discussed the possibility.

"Why else would he be asking for it?" demanded Perian.

"Look," said Gleason. "Don't worry. I know him. He won't do it."

Together, they delivered the small .25 caliber automatic. They found Dodd anxious, remote.

"What do you want with this?" asked Gleason firmly. "I don't think it's a good idea."

"I need it to protect my home," insisted the senator. Unwillingly, Gleason surrendered the pistol.

Dodd was wearing a stylish summer suit — four-button coat and peg trousers — with his identifying prop, his father's gold watch fob and chain suspended from his lapel. He slipped the automatic into his right-hand coat pocket.

Gleason tried again to persuade Dodd not to carry the pistol, but the senator only smiled wanly. "I may leave it in the office," he mumbled, his voice trailing. Then, to appease them, he transferred the pistol from his pocket to his desk drawer.

Hoping they had persuaded him to leave the gun in his office for good, the two staff men settled in the Senate gallery to watch the censure proceedings. After Dodd made his appearance, Perian suddenly nudged Gleason and exclaimed "Gene! He's still got the gun in his pocket!" Sure enough, there was an ominous sag in Dodd's right-hand coat pocket.

"Better get down there!" urged Perian.

Gleason dashed down the stairs to the Senate cloakroom but couldn't get past the plainclothesmen who were assigned, ironically, to protect the senators from harm.

The only way Gleason could get the pistol away from Dodd was to inform on him and subject him to the additional humiliation of being disarmed on the Senate floor. Gleason decided to trust Dodd's tenacious sense of survival and his Roman Catholic conscience.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield gently ushered Dodd into the cloakroom, out of sight, while the roll was called. One by one, his colleagues voted, 92 to 5, to censure him for misconduct.

His disappearance into the cloakroom, meanwhile, raised new apprehensions with Perian and Gleason. They almost expected to hear a muffled shot.

Gleason rushed back down the stairs and tried again to get to the senator. But again, Gleason was rebuffed. Then the two staff members hurried to Dodd's office where friends had gathered to console the stricken senator.

When they eventually reached Dodd's side, Gleason whispered: "Don't ever do that again! Here, let me have it. Gimme this." Then he expertly lifted the pistol from Dodd's pocket.

"C'mon, Gene," the old man said gamely. "What were you guys worried about."

A few days later, he turned over to Perian a German automatic pistol he had kept around his home. Perian discreetly didn't remind Dodd that, obviously, he hadn't needed the .25 automatic earlier to protect his home.

Footnote: It is only fair to add that Dodd, following his censure, went on working hard for gun controls. He was instrumental in pushing through the Senate both the gun control act of 1968 and the federal narcotics act of 1970.

A conservative view

Rights of accused split court

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Kilpatrick

WASHINGTON — Let me come back, if I may, to the Supreme Court's opinion of June 12 in the case of Adams v. Williams. It provides a timely and perfect illustration of what the fight is all about on this issue of criminal law as developed by the Warren court.

The Williams case originated more than four years ago in Bridgeport, Conn. At 2:15 a.m. on the night in question, Police Sergeant John Connolly was alone on car patrol duty in a high crime area of the city. A person known to him approached his cruiser and whispered a tip: A man seated in a nearby automobile was carrying narcotics and had a gun at his waist.

The Court's majority opinion of June 12, written by Justice William H. Rehnquist, continues the narrative.

"After calling for assistance on his car radio, Sergeant Connolly approached the vehicle to investigate the informant's report. Connolly tapped on the car window and asked the occupant, Robert Williams, to open the door. When Williams rolled down the window instead, the sergeant reached into the car and removed a fully loaded revolver from Williams' waistband. The gun had not been visible to Connolly from outside the car, but it was in precisely the place indicated by the informant. Williams was then arrested by Connolly for unlawful possession of the pistol. A search incident to that arrest was conducted after other officers arrived. They found substantial quantities of heroin on Williams' person and a second revolver hidden in the automobile."

Williams challenged his arrest and subsequent conviction as an unlawful search and seizure. The Second Circuit agreed; but the Rehnquist majority, 6-3, reversed the lower court and reinstated the conviction. In the majority view, Sergeant Connolly's actions were lawful and appropriate.

Douglas, Brennan and Marshall exploded in bitter dissent. Douglas made much of the fact that Connecticut allows its citizens to carry weapons provided they have a permit. Granted, Sergeant Connolly had been told the suspect was carrying narcotics. Douglas was not impressed: "Can it be said that a man in possession of narcotics will not have a permit for his gun?" The majority decision, in his view, was "a serious intrusion on Fourth Amendment safeguards."

Marshall was distraught. He found Connolly's actions "totally unreasonable." It was an "invasion of liberty." A proper construction of the Fourth Amendment never would approve "the kind of knee-jerk police reaction that we have before us in this case." There was no reason for Connolly to infer that the suspect was dangerous. The officer's conduct was "arbitrary and oppressive." The decision, said Marshall, "invokes the spectre of a society in which innocent citizens may be stopped, searched and arrested at the whim of police officers who have only the slightest suspicion of improper conduct."

In my own view, the dissenters' objections amount to bubbleheaded nonsense, utterly remote from the realities of law enforcement, the gauzy stuff of which Cloud Nine is made. But this much is clear: The positions are diametrically opposite. If Marshall is right, Rehnquist is wrong. My vote goes to Rehnquist.

White flag overruns are likely

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird has suggested that if Senator McGovern's defense budget of $55 billion is ever adopted, we might as well throw in the towel and spend a billion dollars for white flags which we will hoist all over the world.

Buchwald

On the basis of past performance of our defense contractors, $1 billion for white flags is a wholly unrealistic figure, and Laird knows it.

This is what might happen if the Defense Department let it be known that it was planning to contract for white flags to fly around the globe:

Washington, D.C., April 30, 1973 — The chairman of the House Armed Services Committee announced today that the Lockheed Flag Co. has been given a $1 billion contract to produce 500 white flags for the Defense Department. The chairman denied the fact that Lockheed Flag was located in his district of Swampville, La., had anything to do with the company's winning the order.

Swampville, La., July 14, 1973 — The president of the Lockheed Flag Co. displayed a prototype of the WF1 (White Flag One) for the press this morning. The president said the WF1 would outperform any white flag now flying. It would be an all-weather flag which would fly at night as well as during the day, and could stand gusts of wind up to 100 miles an hour. Lockheed Flag said it hoped to have the WF1 in production in 10 months.

Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., June 15, 1974 — The first WF1 was tested here today and Defense Department officials announced they were very pleased with the results. The WF1 flew at an altitude of 23 feet for three hours. Although it showed some fabric fatigue under stress, Lockheed Flag engineers said the damage was minimal, and easily could be repaired.

Swampville, La., Sept. 2, 1974 — The president of Lockheed Flag announced today that due to increased labor costs, fabric fatigue and hikes in flagpole ropes, his company would not be able to fulfill its WF1 contract for $1 billion. He said he was asking for a supplementary $800 million, which was still a bargain for the country.

Washington, D.C., Dec. 15, 1974 — The chairman of the House Armed Services Committee said he was recommending the $800 million overrun for the WF1 as the security of the nation was at stake. He also said he was adding $100 million extra for Christmas bonuses for Lockheed Flag executives.

Anchorage, Alaska, March 8, 1975 — Two WF1s crashed to the ground yesterday and Pentagon investigators suspect the wooden flagpoles used to fly the white flags were at fault. Termites were found in both flagpoles, and the Defense Department has grounded all WF1s until a new aluminum flagpole could be designed.

Swampville, La., May 11, 1975 — The president of the Lockheed Flag Co. said he would need another $1 billion to replace the flagpoles in the WF1. He said it was the Defense Department's insistence on wooden flagpoles that caused the overrun, and he would need the money immediately if the white flags were to be delivered on schedule.

Washington, D.C., May 12, 1975 — Sen. William Proxmire called the WF1 the biggest Defense Department bungle of the year and suggested the contract be canceled.

Testifying in front of Proxmire's committee, the president of Lockheed Flag said that if he doesn't get $1 billion immediately, his company would go bankrupt and not only would this create a hardship for its stockholders but it would put 35 people out of work.

Washington, D.C., Sept. 11, 1975 — Congress, at the urging of the White House, voted today to give the Lockheed Flag Co. $1 billion to complete work on the WF1 and also lend it another $1 billion to develop a new multiwhite flag project which could fly six white flags from the same flagpole at the same time.

Swampville, La., Nov. 9, 1975 — The President of Lockheed Flag Co. announced today that because of a strike he was asking the Defense Department for another . . .

Nothing stands in the way now of making Galena a prosperous place. After Bill received a mortal wound, he showed true grit by wounding one of his assailants. Galena is bound to become a metropolitan city.

Ann Landers

Death Results From Insistent Parents

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago I learned my husband was a homosexual and had been one for most of his life. Our marriage had been fairly compatible up to that time. We did have a sex life, but it was not very active or satisfactory. He asked for a divorce because he wanted to live with another man.

When we told our parents we were separating they insisted that we get counseling. The more we fought it the harder they pressed. They kept saying, "You two belong together. Try harder. You can make it..." My husband became so frustrated he couldn't work. He lost his job. I felt myself going to pieces.

All the while my mother kept pressuring, "Have a baby! Have a baby!" His mother called every day and begged me to stand by her son "in his hour of need." Finally I told him I was going to tell both his folks and mine the real story so they would leave us alone and we would be divorced. The next morning I found him dead in the garage from exhaust fume inhalation.

To this day I have told no one the true story. But there's a morale here. When people announce they are splitting up, family and friends should accept their decision and leave them alone. Why must they know all the details before they can approve a divorce? I'm having a hard time forgiving our parents for their well-intentioned counsel. — Thanks For Your Shoulder.

Dear Thanks: Obviously you should have cut loose from both families and gone ahead with the divorce. The details are nobody's business. Your mistake was thinking you needed their approval.

Dear Ann Landers: I was pleased to read your advice to the young daughter NOT to tell her mother about her father's infidelity.

For several years I had a strong suspicion that my husband was having an affair with his secretary. His attitude toward me remained unchanged — generous, lovable and kind. He spent quite a lot of time with the family and I must say I never felt deprived. I decided to say nothing in the hope that the affair would die of natural causes.

Unhappily, our daughter learned of her father's unfaithfulness in a most unfortunate manner. She ran into him and the woman in a quiet, out-of-the-way restaurant late one night when he was supposed to be out of the city. She made a scene, called him a cheat and a liar — and proceeded to inform the rest of the family.

I suddenly became the "benefactor" of a great deal of unwanted advice. Everyone told me I was a fool to live with him. I became confused and upset and made the grave mistake of demanding a divorce. He did NOT want it but I insisted.

The result is that I am lonely and heartsick. My children have forgotten the incident and are busy with their families. And I note with interest that the daughter who started the trouble sees a great deal more of her father than she sees of me.

Keep telling people to mind their own business. My life would have been very different if well-meaning friends and relatives had kept their mouths shut. — Dunce Cap.

Dear D.C.: There is no way to control other people's mouths, but that was only part of your downfall. You should have thanked the busybodies for their "kindness," ignored their counsel and handled the situation in the way that seemed best to you.

Raise Chinchillas for Profit and Save the Species

Increase your income right in your own home, garage, spare room or basement.

If you like animals and desire extra income, chinchilla breeding is ideal for you!

Have a profitable business of your own and save the chinchilla from becoming extinct. An easy animal to raise, the chinchilla is a vegetarian and makes no large demands as far as diet is concerned. In fact, the money spent on food is minimal, about $3.50 a year for one animal. Selling as high as $100 a pelt the fur of the chinchilla is as highly rated as sable, yet if it were not for chinchilla breeding in the U.S., the chinchilla would be totally extinct as a species.

Opening lead—♥ Q

By Oswald & James Jacoby

"Romeo, Romeo, wherefore played thou the queen of spades, Romeo?" asked Juliet. Juliet wasn't much of a bridge player, but she was a good kibitzer and did not ask her question until after Romeo and Mercutio had set Tybalt a trick at his three no-trump contract.

Romeo had made his normal opening lead of the heart queen. Tybalt let it hold but won the second heart. Then he led his three of spades and Romeo had gone up with the queen. Tybalt had taken dummy's ace; returned to his hand with a diamond; led a second spade and played dummy's jack.

Mercutio scored the second spade trick for the defense and led his last heart. Eventually Romeo had taken the last two tricks with the ace of clubs and his last heart.

In case any readers feel the same way about that second hand high play as Juliet did, it really couldn't lose.

If South held the king of spades, Romeo's queen was as dead as Romeo himself was at the end of the last act of the Shakespeare tragedy.

The way the cards actually lay, if Romeo had played a low spade Tybalt would have finessed dummy's eight. This is the best play with the actual spade combination since it will lose only one spade trick any time West's original holding includes the 10 of spades and at least one of the higher honors.

2-hitter Puts Fox On Knees

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The way the San Francisco Giants are going this season, it was bound to happen. They've finally brought Manager Charlie Fox to his knees.

Defending National League West champions, the Giants have spent most of the 1972 baseball season buried at the bottom of their division. Tempers grow short in the kind of campaign the Giants are living through and last weekend Manager Fox and pitcher Ron Bryant exchanged angry words over what the left-hander thought was a quick hook.

"If Bryant brings in a shutout," said Fox before sending the lefty out to face the Chicago Cubs Wednesday, "I'll go out on my hands and knees to him."

With the manager's foot positioned neatly in front of his mouth, Bryant naturally blanked the Cubs 2-0 on a two-hitter. Fox came out to congratulate him and did a neat salaam, just as he had promised.

In other National League games Wednesday night, Cincinnati regained first place in the West, knocking off Montreal while the New York Mets were topping Houston 5-4. The Mets crept within five percentage points of first place Pittsburgh in the East race as the Pirates bowed to Los Angeles 5-3 in 10 innings. Philadelphia outslugged Atlanta 9-7 and St. Louis routed San Diego 14-3.

"The added pressure in this game probably made it the most important I ever pitched," said Bryant, who seemed embarassed by Fox' performance. The Cubs were embarassed by Bryant, managing only a leadoff single by Don Kessinger and an eighth-inning single by Billy Williams.

The Giants used consecutive singles by Dave Rader, Alan Gallagher and Tito Fuentes for a run in the second and added two more in the fifth on RBI hits by Ken Henderson and Dave Kingman.

The loss snapped a seven-game Cub winning streak.

Cincinnati spotted Montreal an early three-run lead and then bounced from behind to overtake the Expos and reclaim first place in the West.

Pete Rose tripled home two runs in the second inning and then triggered a three-run fifth with a leadoff single to spark the Reds' rally. It was his triple that got the Reds back in business.

Los Angeles got a pinch single from Jim Lefebvre with two out in the 10th inning to drive in a pair of runs and beat Pittsburgh. Frank Robinson and Wes Parker had both singled with one out and after reliever Dave Giusti got Duke Sims on a bouncer, Lefebvre came off the bench to knock in the two runs.

Bob Robertson had a two-run homer for the Pirates.

The Mets pushed across two runs in the eighth inning to break a tie and relief ace Tug McGraw nailed down the victory for Jerry Koosman against the Astros.

Kossman and Tom Griffin had matched four-hitters over the first seven innings and the score was tied 3-3 when Tommie Agee snapped an 0-for-20 slump with a leadoff double in the eighth. Ken Boswell singled him to third and then he scored when Tommy Helms booted Dave Marshall's bouncer. John Milner singled home another run before the inning ended.

Marshall homered for the Mets and Doug Rader had a ninth inning homer for Houston.

Atlanta's Hank Aaron passed another milestone as the Braves lost to Philadelphia. Aaron had two singles, pushing his career hit total, to 3,313, No. 5 on the alltime list. He moved ahead of Eddie Collins, who had 3,311.

The Phillies, who broke a six-game losing streak, tied the score at 7-7 on Roger Freed's pinch home run in the seventh. Then, in the ninth, Philadelphia loaded the bases on three walks and Mike Ryan delivered a two-out double to drive home the deciding runs.

Willie Montanez and John Bateman homered for the Phillies while Orlando Cepeda connected for the Braves. Felix Millan had four hits and scored four runs for Atlanta.

Oldtimers Game

HOUSTON (AP) — Members of the 1946 World Champion St. Louis Cardinals and the 1947 Texas League and Dixie series champion Houston Buffs will oppose one another in the oldtimers baseball game July 4 in the Astrodome.

Terry Moore, captain of the 1946 Cardinal team, will manage the Cards in the game.

And Finally . . .

No. 211 for Gibson

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Only 20-victory seasons seem to obsess the St. Louis Cardinals' Bob Gibson, but the 36-year-old right-hander took time out Wednesday night to savor career victory No. 211.

Gibson, rained out twice in a row in attempts to become the Cards' all-time winningest pitcher, had an easy time of it in stopping the San Diego Padres 14-3 behind a 16-hit attack including his own three-run homer.

"Records don't mean much to me, but there's no doubt if you are No. 1 there's a certain amount of satisfaction," said Gibson, who surpassed a club mark of 210 wins he shared with Jesse "Pop" Haines.

"Self-satisfaction is the biggest thing anyway," added the 14-season Cards fireballer, who departed after slamming his second home run of the year in a four-run St. Louis seventh.

"I was aware of the target since last year, when I won my 200th and they told me about 210," Gibson added. I didn't know who Pop Haines was. I don't check the record books."

Gibson, who had completed four straight games, won his fifth in a row and squared his season's mark at 5-5 on a three-hitter through seven putting the Cards in front 14-1.

Aggravation of a muscle pull behind his left knee factored in a decision to call it a night after Leron Lee scored the Padres' first run on a double, a long fly and wild pitch.

"They (Cards coaches) suggested it first that I leave and with a little persuasion I agreed," said Gibson, who gave way to Moe Drabowsky for mopping up.

In his easiest triumph of the season the Cards ace watched his teammates hop on Padres right-hander Clay Kirby, 5-7, and reliever Ed Acosta for a 10-0 lead in the first three innings.

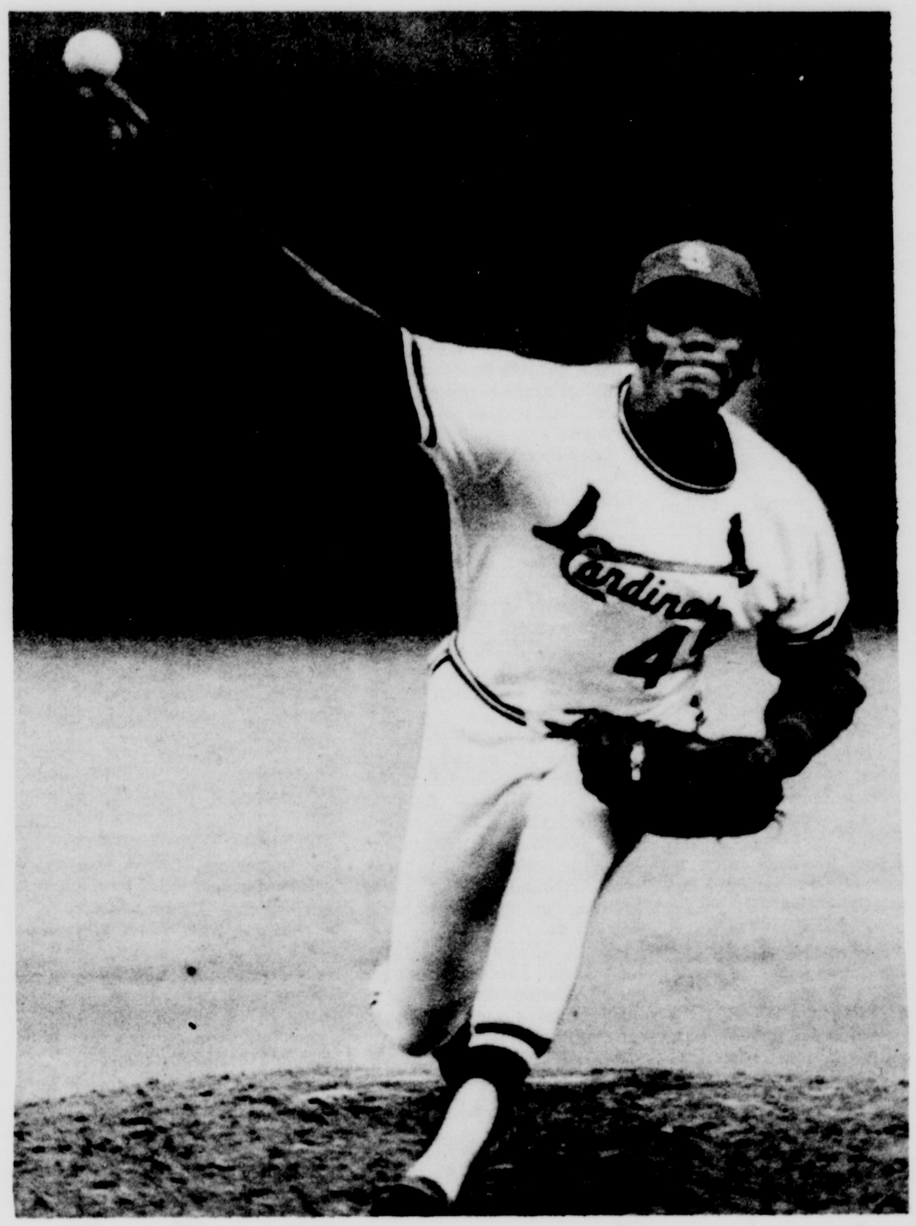

Lee's run made it 10-1 in the seventh. Gibson homered during a four-run rally in the bottom of the inning and Drabowsky yielded two runs including Curt Blefary's pinch-homer in the eighth.

"Aside from the ERA and whatever I think I'm pitching as well as I have in the last two or three years," said Gibson, who fanned six and walked none.

Undefeated since May 15, he added, "All my games over the last month or so have been pretty much the same. . . . The big thing is consistency regardless of whether they get no runs, two runs or four runs. Sometimes they wax you, but they're paid to do that."

Gibson, who had entered with a 3.07 ERA, has surrendered five earned runs, issued 23 hits, fanned 37 and walked but six over 43 innings during his five-game streak.

Not counted were a combined total of 5 2-3 scoreless innings rained out. "I get mad at rainouts and no-decisions because they hurt my chances of winning 20," he said. "That's still the biggest gauge. It's not that easy."

His Own Boss

Ladd Finds New Life on Mat

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ernie Ladd, who boasts he was the highest paid lineman in pro football history, has no regrets since quitting the game at his peak.

As a wrestler, the 32-year-old athlete has doubled his salary.

"In what other sport," Ladd said, "can you pick up a $14 pair of boots, 59-cent socks—spend maybe a total of $50—and convert it into $100,000 a year if you are sharp and trained?"

Ladd even shortchanged himself on the pay, since he claims to have made $115,000 on the mat last year.

But the money is only part of the good life, Ladd said during a stop in Baltimore to compete against Pedro Morales, the heavyweight champion of the World Wide Wrestling Federation.

"Now, I'm my own boss," he said. "I take off three months a year. I'm a more complete man. I come and go when I please.

"In football, if a coach called me at 4 a.m., I had to jump. Now, I can say the hell with it if I don't want to do something."

The 6-foot-9, 297-pound Ladd doesn't like to be told what he can and cannot do. He claims that's why he quit the Kansas City Chiefs in 1968.

"I wanted to see the Olympic Games in Mexico City, and Coach Hank Stram wouldn't let me go," Ladd recalls. "He said if he let one player go, he'd have to let them all go. So I quit."

Ladd, a 15th round draft choice of San Diego in 1961, played out his option with the Chargers and signed with the Houston Oilers in 1966.

"I was making $57,000," Ladd said. "Houston signed me for more money than Joe Namath was making. They still owe me a few hundred thousand, and have to pay me until 1989."

The former defensive tackle joined the wrestling circuit in 1964 and "practically starved while I took my lumps for three years and had my nose rubbed on the mat.

"But even when my payoffs were bad," Ladd said, "I raised hell in the ring and I kept improving."

Ladd, who said he rejected a suggestion from former boxing great Archie Moore to become a fighter, claims he is in the right sport.

"When a boxer makes a name for himself," Ladd said, "the rats come out of nowhere and claim his money. Wrestlers don't get $1 million purses, but a lot of them make over $40,000 a year and don't get drained.

"How many boxers wind up as shoeshine boys or parking lot attendants? You won't find ex-wrestlers doing that."

O'Connors Sweeps Twinbill at Warsaw

WARSAW — The Mike O'Connor softball team won a softball doubleheader over Warsaw, here, Wednesday night.

O'Connors captured the opener, 6-1, and won the nightcap, 17-9.

Sam Cramer was the winning pitcher in the first game; Rodney Meyer was charged with the loss. Tom Hunter supplied O'Connors with a three-for-five performance, which included a double and a triple.

In winning the second end of the twinbill, O'Connors pounded out 17 hits, three of which came from Cramer. Cramer accounted for eight rbi. He picked up four on a grand slam home run.

Bill Ray also homered for O'Connors.

Vern Harvey was the winning pitcher, while Dewayne Weinburg was the loser.

O'Connors travels to Collins Saturday night for another road doubleheader.

MATCHED FOR OTHERS

LOUISVILLE (AP) — When Riva Ridge won the Kentucky Derby of one mile and a quarter in 2:01.4 he matched the time registered by Twenty Grand in 1931, Swaps in 1955, Chateaugay in 1963 and Majestic Prince in 1969.

Only seven horses have bettered that time. Northern Dancer, 1964 Derby winner, holds the record of two minutes.

In Big 8 Office

Henry Succeeds Holmes

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Orville "Butch" Henry III, for the past year assistant sports information director at Oklahoma State University, has been named to succeed Mickey Holmes as service bureau director of the Big Eight Conference.

Henry, 23, will begin his new job July 5. Holmes resigned to accept a position as commissioner of the Missouri Valley Conference with headquarters in Tulsa, Okla.

Henry's appointment was announced Wednesday by Big Eight Commissioner Charles M. Neinas, who described Henry as "a young, energetic individual who has a solid sports background."

Neinas said because of Henry's employment "the conference intends to increase its services to the news media. In addition, his abilities and interests are such that he will be in position to bring more deserved attention to the outstanding over-all sports programs conducted by the member institutions of the Big Eight."

Henry's basic responsibility will be redevelopment of the conference service bureau and publications program.

Henry is a native of Little Rock, Ark. He was graduated in 1971 from the University of Arkansas and had been student sports information director there for three years.

His father, Orville Henry Jr., is sports editor of the Arkansas Gazette. Orville Henry III was employed on the sports staff of the Arkansas Gazette and Tulsa World and is married to the former Lynn Baumgartner of Mission Hills, Kan.

Perry 'Rubs' in Another Victory

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gaylord Perry didn't have much Wednesday night . . . probably because he gave it to Bill Rigney the night before.

When the Cleveland Indians arrived in Minnesota on Tuesday, Twins' Manager Rigney found a tube of sticky ointment on his desk, courtesy of Perry. Rigney had accused the veteran right-hander of doctoring the baseball when Perry beat the Twins and Bert Blyleven 7-1 two weeks ago.

So Perry rubbed it in again by beating the Twins—and Blyleven—4-2 Wednesday night.

Elsewhere in the American League, Detroit took over undisputed possession of first place in the East Division by downing Oakland while California toppled Baltimore 6-3. The Chicago White Sox trounced Milwaukee 9-3 and Boston outslugged Texas 10-9 in 11 innings. Kansas City and New York were rained out.

Perry, who has been accused of putting everything from saliva to greasy kid stuff on the baseball, didn't have his best stuff but still joined Chicago's Wilbur Wood and Detroit's Mickey Lolich as the major leagues' only 11-game winners.

"It was a tough nine innings," he said. "I struggled all the way. I don't know what the trouble was, but I do know I have to have a good defense or I have trouble winning."

Shortstop Frank Duffy made two fine catches of line drives and third baseman Graig Nettles bailed Perry out of a sticky situation in the ninth. With one run already in, two on and two out, Nettles knocked down a smash by Harmon Killebrew and turned it into a game-ending forceout.

Ray Fosse homered for the Indians in the second inning and Duffy followed with a triple and scored on Del Unser's sacrifice fly. The Indians got the decisive runs in the eighth against reliever Dave LaRoche when Chris Chambliss walked and Nettles homered.

Tom Timmerman pitched Detroit into sole possession of first place by checking Oakland on five hits, including Mike Epstein's 18th homer in the seventh inning.

Bob Oliver's two-run single highlighted a four-run rally in the seventh that lifted the Angels over Baltimore and dropped the Orioles into second place.

Baltimore had taken a 3-2 lead in the top of the seventh on run-scoring singles by Don Buford and Paul Blair—Merv Rettenmund homered for the Orioles' first run—when California teed off on relievers Doyle Alexander and Eddie Watt.

The White Sox exploded for eight runs in the eighth inning to erase a 3-1 deficit and bury the Brewers. Dick Allen drew a leadoff walk from Bill Parsons and Bill Melton singled. With a 2-1 count on Rick Reichardt, Ken Sanders replaced Parsons and completed the walk. Reichardt eventually scored the go-ahead run, making Parsons the loser.

Every Thursday is Ladies Day at Delaware Park racetrack near Wilmington, Del. Admission is 20 cents. The meeting runs until Aug. 13.

Rumblings in Minnesota

The ball pops up in the air as players fall in different directions when Cleveland's Frank Duffy, left, slammed into Minnesota catcher Phil Roof during the second inning of the Minnesota-Cleveland game, Wednesday night in Bloomington, Minn. Duffy scored from third on Del Unser's fly to right. The Indians, behind Gaylord Perry, defeated the Twins, 4-2. (UPI)

All-America Spotlight

Gambling Willie Draws Praises

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — If you like your football defensive, keep an eye on No. 28 of the West Saturday night as he lines up at his cornerback spot in the 12th annual Coaches All-America game.

Willie Buchanon, who made a name for himself at San Diego State, has been the talk of the West camp as coach Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma makes plans to battle the East coached by Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama.

"I've worked the whole week against him and Willie is the best I've ever seen," said Southern Methodist flanker Gary Hammond. "He's not only quick, but he's smart. He can diagnose a play in a flash."

The 6-foot, 200-pound Buchanon, a first-round pick of the Green Bay Packers, was the seventh player taken in the National Football League draft.

He was the most valuable defensive player in the East-West Shrine game in which he intercepted a record three passes.

During his senior year, 46 passes were thrown his way. Only 12 were complete and he intercepted five.

Buchanon's philosophy is much like that of Herb Adderley of the NFL Champion Dallas Cowboys, who likes to gamble for the interception.

"I like to play it tough and take the gamble," Buchanon said. "I found out that if you are tough enough, quarterbacks will shy away from your side of the field. I had a real good junior year and I noted I didn't get tested too often last season."

Buchanon is one reason why the West rates an early touchdown over the East in the nationally televised 7:30 p.m. CDT game which is expected to attract some 40,000 fans to Jones Stadium on the Texas Tech campus.

However, linebacker Mike Tyler of Michigan knows why the West is favored and it doesn't bother him a bit.

"I'll tell you why we are the underdogs—Basically because we are playing in the West," he said. "It's really a very evenly matched game, even if our quarterbacks don't have the press clippings the West quarterbacks do."

The West will be quarterbacks by Nebraska's Jerry Tagge and Oklahoma's Jack Mildren while two relative unknows, Paul Miller of North Carolina and Joe Gilliam of Tennessee State, will direct the East attack.

Pick Gary Marriott As Ellsworth Coach

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Gary Marriott, former Kansas State University basketball star, has accepted the head basketball coaching position at Ellsworth Junior College, Iowa Falls, Iowa.

For the last four years, Marriott was head coach at Trinidad (Colo.) College. His last two ball clubs there posted an overall record of 42 victories and 15 losses.

A native of Osage City, Kan., Marriott was graduated from Kansas State in 1963. He was head coach at Manhattan High School from 1965-66, where his teams won 34 games and lost eight.

Reinstate Team

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League changed their minds Wednesday and decided to reinstate their Fort Worth farm club in the Central Hockey League.

Owner-president Bruce A. Norris of the Wings said the original decision to shelve the Fort Worth franchise was announced at the NHL's June meeting in Quebec.

NFL-NLRB

Talks Continue

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A National Labor Relations Board hearing into charges that the National Football League refuses to bargain with players on fines and artificial turf safety entered its third day today with owners presenting their arguments.

Theodore Kheel, NFL attorney, testified for 90 minutes Wednesday explaining certain areas of the league's contract with the National Football League Players Association.

Kheel was to continue his testimony today and be cross-examined by NFLPA attorneys.

The NLRB issued a complaint against NFL owners for refusing to bargain on the questions, and ordered them to return $20,000 in fines levied against players who left the bench to join on-field fights during the 1971 season. The owners asked for a hearing on the matter.

Mevlin Welles, trial examiner, is not expected to make a decision in the case for at least a month after testimony is completed today or Friday.

The NFLPA completed its testimony late Wednesday with Alan Page, the Minnesota Vikings defensive tackle who was the NFL's most valuable player in 1971, testifying that the players were unaware of the rule that prohibits them from leaving the bench.

Edward R. Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, earlier testified that NFL owners have told him repeatedly that the players have no rights to negotiate under their current contract.

He said that several owners claim the existence of a so-called "zipper" clause stating the contract represents the complete and final agreement on all bargainable subjects for duration of the contract.

But Garvey said this clause was modified to say that "any change in current pratices affecting employment conditions of the players shall be negotiated in good faith."

Following Surgery

Littler Eyes Return To Tour

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Golfer Gene Littler, still recovering from cancer surgery on the lymph glands under his left arm, says he is determined to take up the clubs again and isn't ruling out a return to the pro circuit.

"There's no question in my mind that I'm going to try," the winner of the 1961 U.S. Open said in an interview. But he doesn't anticipate making the effort to play again for at least a month and possibly two or three.

"No one can say how well I'll play," Littler said. "The doctors won't stick their necks out and say I'll play as good as ever.

"But the way I feel now—real well, although my arm isn't as strong as it was and doesn't have the mobility it did—but the way I feel and have been progressing, I think it will be nearly as good as new. I feel like I'll be able to do it."

Littler, who at 41 is golf's fifth all-time money winner with more than $800,000, had a malignant cancer tumor removed from his lymph glands March 15 and then underwent surgery again April 4 to have all the gland-bearing tissue under the arm removed.

No further trace of the potentially fatal disease was found.

"I feel like I'm making real good progress," he says. "It's slow but these things are. I've been patient and I think I've seen a little bit of progress each week. Most of the strength is back in my arm. I can lift it up now." s

There is still some muscle and nerve activity to regain, and for this Gene is swimming, exercising and seeing doctors three times a week for therapy and what he calls an electrical stimulation program.

Although he thinks he could swing a golf club now, he sees no need to rush it. "Time is the only thing we have to wait for now," he said.

Jane Booth Paces U.S. Qualifiers in Tourney

HUNSTANTON, England (AP) — America's Curtis Cup team, headed by Jane Booth of Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., moved into the match play portion of the British Women's Amateur Golf Championships today.

Miss Booth completed the two-round qualifying Wednesday, with a seven-over-par 82 for a 36-hole total of 157 on the windswept 6,070-yard, par 38-37—75 Hunstanton Links.

Her total score was only two shots behind leading qualifier Belle Robertson of Scotland.

"We have wind in the states, but here it tries to blow you over," said Beth Barry of Mobile, Ala., who qualified with an 82-78—160.

"It was cold outside," said Lancy Smith of New York City, another stroke back at 161 after rounds of 81-80. "We just couldn't wait to get back in the clubhouse."

Other American qualifiers included Laura Baugh, Long Beach, Calif., 80-82—162; Martha Kirouac, Rancho Bernardo, Calif., 83-86—169; Hollis Stacy, Savannah, Ga. 73-97—170, and Barbara McIntire, Colorado Springs, Colo., 81-89—170.

Bart Starr Tests His Passing Arm

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr put his passing arm to another test Wednesday and the veteran Green Bay Packer quarterback did well, according to Coach Dan Devine.

"He threw all types of patterns extremely well," Devine said after watching Starr.

Starr, who missed the first nine games of the 1971 National Football League season after two arm operations, has set a July 1 deadline to decide whether to retire or play a 17th season.

Meet Datsun's new Li'l Hustler.

For 13 years you've been helping us design it.

This is the all-new Datsun Pickup. The latest edition of our Li'l Hustler, the No. 1 selling import truck in America. We started with a great thing 13 years ago, and with your help it's been improving ever since.

There's a new two-stage suspension; light or loaded, the ride is incomparable. There's a roomier full-vinyl interior with a contoured bench seat, restyled instruments, and a new power-flow ventilation system. New power-assist brakes. Plus, all the things that made us No. 1 to begin with: overhead cam engine that delivers up to 25 miles per gallon, 4-speed fully-synchronized stick shift, 6-foot all-steel load bed with tie-down hooks, 6-ply-rated whitewalls, and more.

Drive the brand-new Datsun Pickup. Find out firsthand what made us No. 1.

The late Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., carried a pistol in his pocket to the Senate floor when he was censured, according to columnist Jack Anderson. "Those who knew about the pistol feared the despondent Dodd might try to end his humiliation with a pistol shot," Anderson reported in today's column. (UPI)

Says Suburban Effort Necessary For Needy

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
AP Urban Affairs Writer

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier, who for three years led the now nearly victorious fight for revenue sharing, says the next goal for the nation's mayors is to force the suburbs to assist in caring for the poor.

"The next priority is to get the entire metropolitan area to assume the burdens of poverty by enabling poor people to live outside the center city," said Maier. "It is going to be very tough to get this recognized as a national necessity, but it's a fight we have to take on. I don't see any alternative."

This neat, pipe-smoking mayor may seem like a David before the Goliath of opposition to racially and economically open housing in the suburbs, but nine years ago in Palo Alto he coined a phrase at a mayors conference with his demand for "a reordering of national priorities." This year every candidate for president claims that he has done that or will do it.

"I know we face political impracticabilities in this fight, but ultimately that would be quicker and less costly than to have the poor rattling around in the sandbox of the center cities as we have now with no end in sight," Maier said.

Asked if he had heard any presidential candidates talking about open housing this year, Maier said, "No, but in nine years we have accomplished a goal. People are now thinking about reordering national priorities. Important institutions like the Urban Coalition and the Brookings Institution and even a presidential candidate are not just talking about it but actually writing alternative federal budgets."

And, Maier said, in 1963 the federal government spent $5.5 billion in programs that helped cities and now the figure is $33 billion.

For the last three years, Maier has been the chief advocate among the mayors for revenue-sharing, their No. 1 priority, a program to give cities federal aid without restrictions on its use.

As Maier stepped down Wednesday after a year as president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, revenue-sharing passed a critical test in the House. The congressmen agreed to vote today on the bill without amendments that might have crippled it.

Wednesday, Maier predicted passage in the House and prompt attention in the Senate. Mayor Louie Welch of Houston, who succeeded Maier as president of the conference, said President Nixon had telephoned him to promise to use all his influence for a quick Senate approval.

Pooped Peahen Gives Up Hope

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — A patient peahen that has been sitting on her nest for the past 28 days while her proud peacock mate strutted nearby finally gave up the cause.

Mrs. C. H. Bailey of Hutchinson, owner of the birds, noticed Wednesday that the hen had ended its sit-in and made a beeline to the nest in hopes of finding a peacock chick.

Then the reason motherhood had failed to blossom became clear—the hen had been trying to hatch a discarded light bulb.

Testify In Trial Of Damico

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The officer who arrested Anthony Damico testified Wednesday that the accused murderer began trembling and stuttering when asked the whereabouts of Mrs. Sally Lucas.

Damico, 25, of Hazelwood, Mo., has been accused of first-degree murder in the Aug. 16 slaying of Mrs. Lucas, wife of a St. Louis industrialist.

The body of Mrs. Lucas, 36, of the St. Louis suburb of Town and Country, was found Sept. 5 near a riding stable in west St. Louis County where she was to have picked up her daughter. Mrs. Lucas' skull and jaw were fractured.

Sgt. Charles F. Buckley, Panama City Beach, Fla., testified he sighted Mrs. Lucas' car for three nights on a beach there. On the third night he ran a computer check which revealed the car was "hot".

Buckley said after approaching Damico about 4 a.m. for identification, he asked: "Mr. Damico, do you know the whereabouts of Sally Lucas?"

"Immediately when I said that," Buckley continued, "he jumped back about a foot and his hands started trembling. His whole body started shaking. He tried to say something but he just stuttered for 30 to 45 seconds."

Buckley said he found a notebook in the car that apparently belonged to Damico. In the back of the book was a notation which Buckley read to the court: "Monday—60 Art."

In his opening statement, trial prosecutor Charles L. Merz contended that Damico sold two rings and a diamond pendant of Mrs. Lucas' to Art Buschmann, the owner of a steak house in California, Mo., for $60.

Also in the notebook were two telephone numbers, one of which, Merz said, is the number of the steak house. Buckley also testified that a book of matches bearing the name of the steak house was found inside the car.

Testimony was scheduled to resume in the trial this morning.
